

no good for me
fine line
all your love
evaporate
only time

no good for me

late night sunrise i can barely open my eyes running late catch a train why does this keep happening every time i take her call she says i can have it all so i do, yeah i do

it's always too much and i can't get enough

i keep coming back i know that i should and i know i should walk away and i would but she's so good and no good for me everyone says didn't i tell you that she's too young, she's so bad gonna make you lose your time spend your money and waste your mind but every time we start this fire she's a drug that takes me higher so good no good and i know that i should walk away no good no good no good

fine line

is this what you wanted lying in a bed of broken dreams to feel like you're haunted by the ghost of who you're supposed to be it happens for a reason should never be the reason to lay down, lay down lose faith in yourself

there's a fine line what you want and what you've got a fine line what you know and what you have and I've learned a fine line drawn by our mistakes, a fine line, our choices can erase a change where we are, where we want to be it takes time and all that separates it, is a fine, fine, fine
fine line

you ask the questions but keep the answers far away bury your intentions in words like destiny and fate there's something greater a plan you can believe in but do you wait for it to unfold or do you take control do you take control?

all your love

it's so hard when you give it all cause then you've got everything to loose but you can't expect to swim unless you dive right in and that's something you've got to choose half your heart half the time is never gonna make anything whole that was in the past, we didn't last but if you need me now maybe we can work it

i'll let go of yesterday so we can try to get it right but you've got to win back a broken heart and i'll tell you what it takes, it's gonna take all your love there's no easy road to travel and there's chance we may not arrive but baby i dare you even when it scares you to lay it on the line to have a little faith this time if you jump and fall at least you gave it all but nothing will change if you stand in place

evaporate

lying beside you, baby i feel the sun shining in, wrapping you and me up here in this bed and it's perfect, just like the world stopped spinning for a moment, stopped the turning of the wheels in my head why can't the moment stay just you and me together why does it have to change like the weather

life is short and it moves too fast it fades away and the memories don't last gone up in a cloud and the friends dream that I thought I knew even my beliefs don't know what's true there's only one thing that I found that won't fade or dissipate our love's the only thing that won't evaporate

i can remember back to a time i thought my future was secure, invincible, yeah i was sure that no one could hurt me, everyone i loved would stay, but that illusion shattered, all that matters never stays the same you have the heart that keeps me safe and sound when my world falls apart you're my solid ground

only time

you can hide away inside your room for days on end laugh then cry, cry then laugh and do that again convince yourself you're not falling apart but only time can heal your broken heart only time can heal you broken heart you can drown yourself in a drink or ten play the field baby and just pretend that all the lips you kiss are playing some part but only time can heal your broken heart

only time can heal your broken heart

so give it time
give it time
give it time

only time can heal your broken heart
only time can heal you broken heart
only time can heal your broken heart
only time can heal your broken heart